Our 1930 List

Our old customers will note the changes in our new 1930 List. First we have adopted the plan of combining the wholesale and retail lists, thus cutting our overhead, and passing this saving on to our customers by prepaying all orders East of the Mississippi and materially reducing carrying charges West of the Mississippi. We are confident that this change will be more satisfactory, and hope it meets with your approval.

WE

This refers to myself and son, J. K. Bellard, who is associated with me in this enterprise, and has charge of the field work.

ELM HILL FARM

Our farm and home was one of the first commercial gladiolus enterprises to be founded in the United States, having been founded by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Austin 43 years ago, and operated continuously by, or in partnership with them, until the spring of 1929, when we purchased the farm and stock of gladiolus bulbs from the A. H. Austin Co.; having been manager of this firm for the ten years previous.

During this time we have been constantly experimenting and developing new and better methods of growing, propagating, cleaning, and storing of gladiolus bulbs and have a well equipped plant for this work.

This year we have a planting of 14 acres of gladiolus and wish that more of our friends and customers could see it.

AS TO VARIETIES

We have listed some 90 varieties which we consider to be some of the best, both in the standard varieties and in the novelties. We try to keep abreast of the times and add the more meritorious of the new ones each year.

We will be glad to answer any inquiries as to varieties, propagation, and culture.

A WORD ABOUT DISEASES

Although our stock has been notably free from disease, we take every precaution to guard against it. We treat every bulb and bulblet that we plant in a solution of corrosive sublimate, and were rewarded this year by a crop of bulbs as plump and healthy as you ever saw.

OUR GUARANTEE

We guarantee our stock to be true to name and free from disease, and will on proper proof, replace in ordered sizes or refund purchase price. In no case will we be liable for more than the purchase price.
